SOCIAL SCIENCE DIALOGUES with Don Taylor

Professor, Public Policy Director, Social Science Research Institute

Browntown: An American Story

Professor Don Taylor shares a story about the origins of Browntown Crossroads, in Greene County, N.C. where he grew up. Learning the history of Browntown helped him to understand how racialized was his upbringing and how that has affected him. He has come to view American history at least in part being defined by a "hierarchy of human value" and he will lead a discussion about whether such hierarchies exist on Duke's campus today.

TRINITY RESIDENCE HALL November 21, 2019 @ 7:00 pm

Hosted by the Faculty in Residence Program Sponsored by the Social Science Research Institute

